Ravenina, March 29, 1833. BLACK SILKS. It is believed that the above work by Mr. Goodrich will be very acceptable to the American public. It is the result of years of toil and labor, assisted in his researches by soveral acholars of known ability, and had been gotten up at a great expense by the proprieters. No pains have been spared in the execution of the illustrations and maps, which are entirely new, propared by the distinguished author expressly for the work. Indeed, all the other historical writings of Mr. Goodrich sink into insignificance, when compared with this, the result of his riper and muturer years. We sincerely believe that one hundred dollars could not purchase the same matter in any ollust shape, and the publishers confidently expect that in one hundred dollars could not purchase the same matter in consideration of the great literary value of the work, the large same expended in preparing it for the press, and the exceedingly moderate price at which it is offered, that it will be favorably received by the American public.
